Movin' On With The Times

Whatever circumstances may arise during the next 10 years at Copiah-Lincoln Community College, one thing will be certain - that the institution, its employees, and its student body will keep movin' on with the times. Sure, obstacles will try and get in the way, but the determination and dedication of the people associated with the college will see to it that Co-Lin moves ahead. And it is because of its people that the college has come as far as it has since 1928. In 61 years, Co-Lin has moved forward to meet the needs of the seven county district. Day to day, week to week, month to month, and year to ever-changing year, Copiah-Lincoln will meet the challenges of the '90s head on without letting anyone down.

➡Even the ducks at the college pond will move ahead with the college into the 1990's.

⬅Basketball player Raymond Yancy of Natchez moves on up over a Southwest Bear to sink two points.

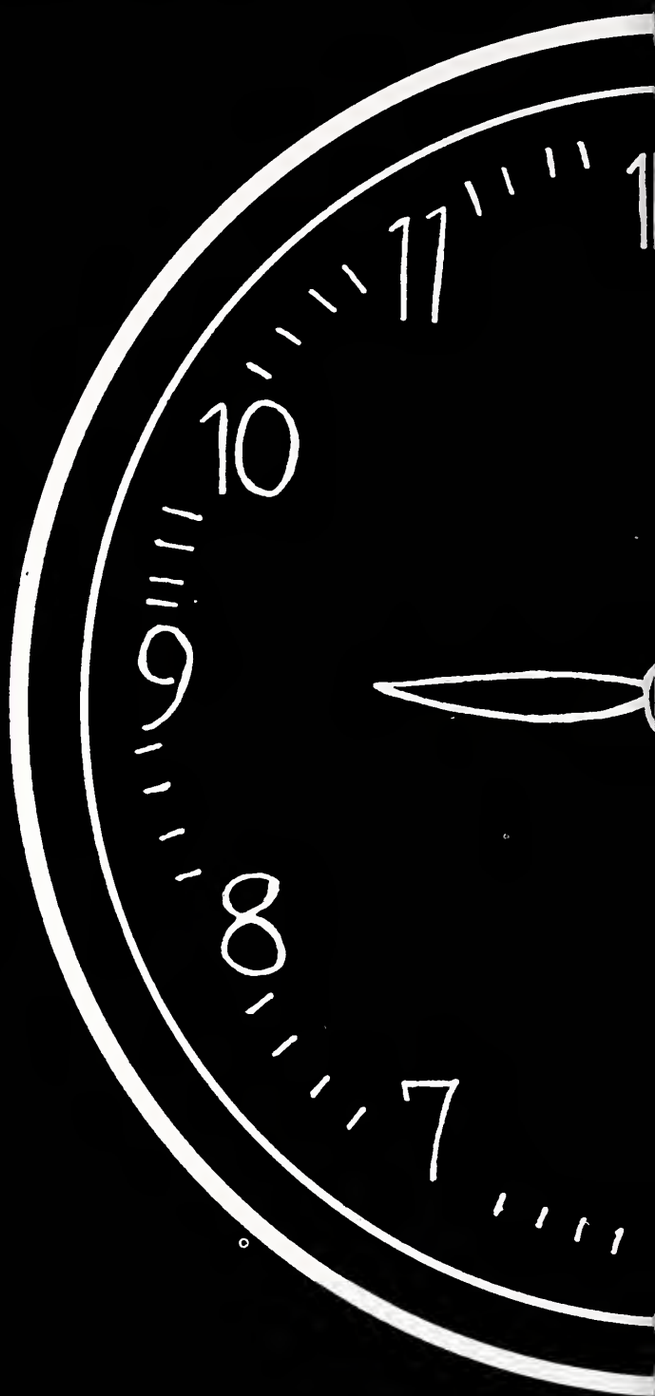
⬆Faculty and staff members never slow down. Several college employees moved out onto Lake Sidney Wayne for a late afternoon cruise during the annual fish fry.

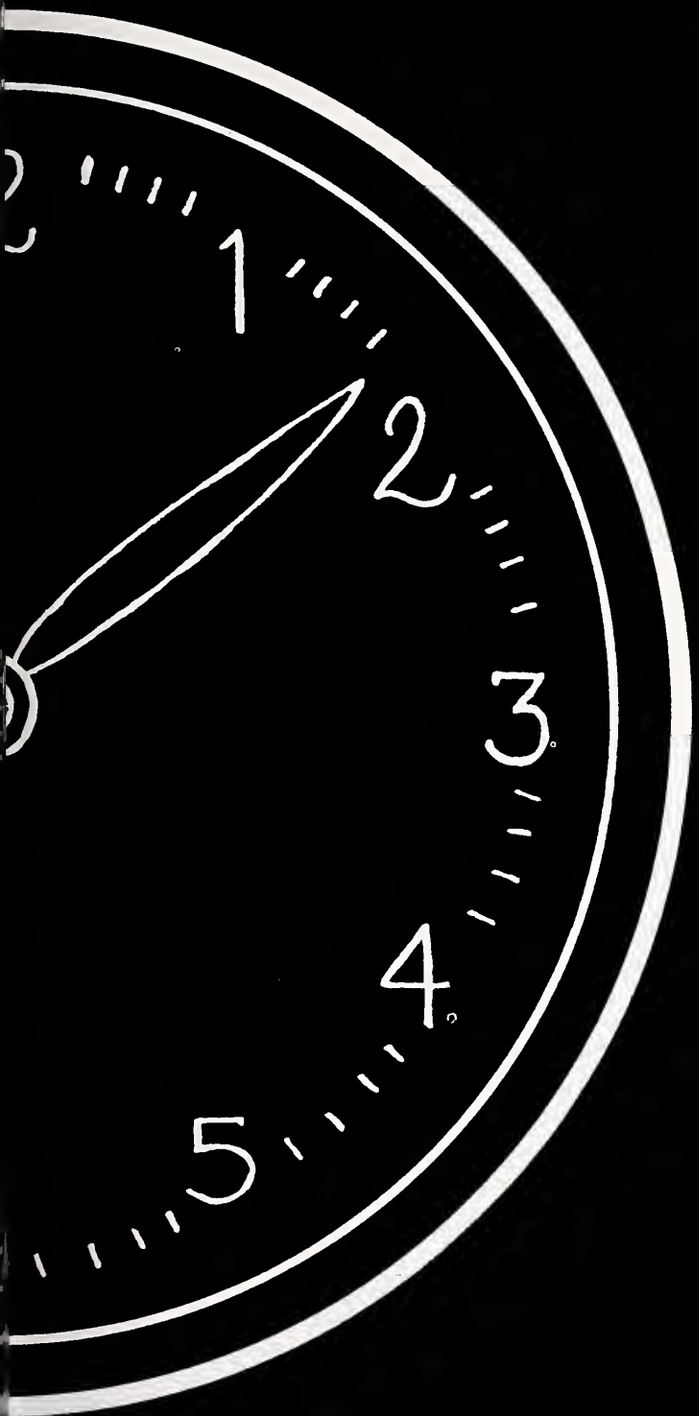
⬅Dancin' Dan - Social Science and Business Instructor Danny Harrell moves to the beat at the "Back to School" dance.

Moving Into

As Copiah-Lincoln Community College moves into the 1990's, the faces seen on these two pages will definitely change. However, it is what can be seen on the inside of the college's students which will not change and which will continue for years to come. The Co-Lin spirit, found in everyone associated with the institution, will live on forever. This spirit is seen each day in the form of dedication, commitment, hard work, and yes, lots of fun. These bits and pieces come together, releasing a sort of electricity, that shows the outsider that Co-Lin is a special place.



The Nineties



And .... even though the spirit of the college will remain intact as a new age approaches, there will be aspects of both the Wesson and Natchez campuses that will undergo change. New facilities will be constructed to hold the increasing number of students who enroll each year. Programs will be added and upgraded to keep in time with improved technology, and the number of staff members will be increased to handle work loads. Also, there may even be expansion in extra-curricular activities as more emphasis is placed on health and on stress reduction. There is no doubt that change is inevitable at Co-Lin .... change that will blast the college, as a leader, into the '90s.

Moving Out Of

When looking back at Co-Lin during the 1980's, anyone connected with the institution can see tremendous modification and innovation. During the past ten years several facilities have been added to both campuses. The Wesson Campus has added Henley Student Services, Messer Vocational Building, Simpson and Franklin Halls, and Stevens Annex, not to mention the numerous renovation projects that have been completed. In Natchez, the vocational-technical facility has been built, and the Natchez Campus has added many courses over the last decade. Wesson's Learning Center has also been a major expansion in that it has broadened students' opportunities to achieve in the classroom.

The Eighties

Plus . . . the college's athletic teams and organizations have excelled. The words "state champions," "most outstanding chapter," and "winning tradition," have all become a part of the college language. Co-Lin even changed its name in the '80s from junior college to community college, reflecting the successful attempts in the past ten years to involve area citizens in campus activities. Also, over 100 new employees have been welcome additions at Co-Lin, along with a $11,720,793 budget which, in 1979, totaled only $4,601,952. All of these "extras" gained by the college in the past few years have made Co-Lin a strong, wise and recognized educational institution.

Board Has Co-Lin's Destiny In The Palm Of Its Hand

Every time the college's board of trustees meets, they make critical decisions concerning the institution, employees, and students that will have an effect for years to come. And it is with pride that these men and women come together each month to discuss matters pertaining to the place they feel meets the educational needs of residents in the seven-county area.

The board of trustees adopts policies governing the college only after detailed discussion and consideration. Attention is especially given to the hiring of new personnel because of the influence they will have on the students enrolled at the college.

Students at Copiah-Lincoln Community College are moving in only one direction — the right one. Through participation in the college's outstanding academic, vocational, and technical programs, those enrolled are receiving the best education possible at a two-year institution. Whether a student is interested in nursing, machine shop, physical education, or any of the numerous curricula Co-Lin has to offer, that person can be assured of obtaining the instruction leading him or her into a promising future.

Ricks Retires As Dean Of Students

Even though Dean of Students Alton Ricks won't enter the 1990's with the college, the atmosphere he has established on the campus definitely will. Implementing all aspects of student services, Ricks has been instrumental in handling discipline problems ranging from spats between roommates to curfew violations. He has also assisted in creating effective orientation procedures for entering freshmen, in supervising Student Government Association activities, and in handling campus elections.

Co-Lin has been and always will be a part of Ricks' life. As a young man, he attended the college as a student, playing on the state championship basketball team of 1948. Since becoming a member of Co-Lin family in 1955, Ricks has served as basketball coach, student activities director, and academic counselor, before being named Dean of Students. As the college begins to tell of a new time, it will also continue to tell of a man who has made special contributions to a special institution.

←Dean of Students Alton Ricks chats with a member of the Brookhaven/Lincoln County Chamber of Commerce during a reception the chamber held in the college's honor. Ricks has represented Co-Lin at numerous functions since coming to work at the college in 1955.

Dr. Thames Guides College Into 1990's

As chief executive officer of the college, Dr. Thames will take on the responsibility of directing Co-Lin into the future. He will continue to carry out the policies and standards of the school as set forth by the Board of Trustees. Always thinking ahead, Dr. Thames will see to it that any improvements needed on the campus will be made, and that Co-Lin's name will always be linked to quality education, staff and student dedication, and unsurpassable pride.

⬆Dr. Thames doesn't always leave work at the office. He scans the newspaper each day at home for information on state education.

⬇Dr. Thames is currently working on facility improvements such as the i stallment of elevators to aid handicapped students.

Cavin Receives Dedication For Many Years Of Service

←As the drafting and design program coordinator, Herman Cavin is always willing to go the extra mile for his students. He not only helps them gain the textbook knowledge they need, but he also goes as far as aiding them in finding employment.

↓As president of the Copiah-Lincoln Education Association for 1989-90, Cavin brings the Christmas luncheon meeting to order.

The 1989-90 edition of the Trillium yearbook is dedicated to Herman Cavin, who has been a dedicated employee of the college since 1963. Cavin is currently the coordinator for the drafting and design program which is a part of the vocational-technical division. Vocational-technical associate dean Louis Dugas said of Cavin, "He is an exceptional educator who has produced many outstanding draftsmen over a 27 year career."

Cavin received his bachelor's and master's degrees from Mississippi State University, and he has done additional work at the University of Southern Mississippi. He is also active in several organizations, serving as the current president of the Copiah-Lincoln Education Association and as a member of the Mississippi Association of Technical Educators and the American Technical Education Association.

A native of Adams County, Cavin is now a Wesson resident who enjoys deer hunting, gun collecting, and woodworking. His wife, Gwen, is an employee at Wesson Attendance Center, and the two of them are parents of Lea Ann, a school counselor in Ocean Springs.

Moving Into The Dormitory

Excitement combined with a little hesitation is in the air as students leave home and move into a new environment. But what better surroundings could there be than the dormitory atmosphere on the Co-Lin campus. Students soon find themselves adjusting to late night talk sessions with newly found roommates, the pizza parties in Stevens Annex, and the laundry baskets filled with dirty clothes. Students don't forget mom and dad back home, though. Dormitory phones are always busy with co-eds calling to tell parents about the good, and sometimes bad, things that have happened during the day. It takes a little time adapting to dorm life and to being away from home, but the memories of these experiences will be with the students forever.

⬇Felicia Butler, a freshman from Natchez, brings in some of her hang-up clothes. Felicia loads and unloads her car each weekend as she leaves her hometown and heads back to Co-Lin for another week of classes.

"I have to be active. I tend to my grandchildren, my yard, my house, and still work."

Helen Mullen

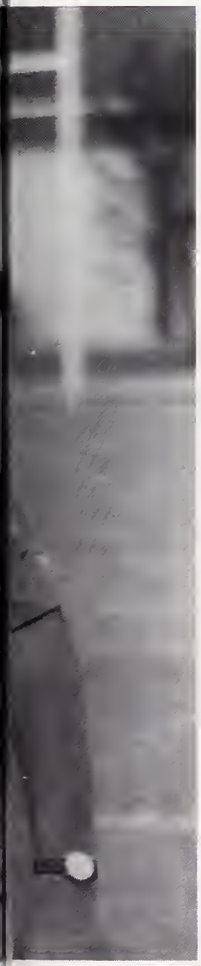
⬆Lois Hawkins, secretary for the public information and alumni affairs offices, looks over some directions for her Funmaster computer software. Hawkins got her new IBM computer just before school started and says she doesn't know how she ever did her work without it.

➡Head Football Coach Ray Ishee yells some instructions to the Wolfpack during one of the first home games of the season. The Wolves will have a hard time topping the winning 1989 season as the team enters the 90's.



Faculty/ Staff

Copiah-Lincoln's faculty and staff of the 1990's will continue to provide the best possible educational assistance and support services to the students of the seven-county area. Instructors will only get better as they say good-bye to the 80's and begin to step in time with the new technology of a new decade. Computer development will aid teachers even more in their educational quests, as will advances in computer software. Also, audio-visual equipment will be able to help students to fully understand subjects which teachers may find hard to explain.

Along with these predictions for the 90's comes one other expectation - that no matter how much advancement is seen in technology, there will still be the need for the human spirit of the teacher. No computer or television screen will be able to replace the understanding, thoughtfulness, and concern found among the men and women who make up the faculty and staff of the college.

Dr. Garner Forecasts . . .

. . . that the responsibility for classroom instructors to guide the learning process of students will still exist in the new decade, even though the methodology used in the instructional program will change to keep current with the modern world. He believes technological progress will carry over into the '90s at an exponential rate. "Through the use of computers and interactive video, students will learn using several media at the same time," he says. Dr. Garner also sees a major increase in the number of older adults returning to college to enrich their lives through study.

Brown Foresees . . .

. . . a steady increase in enrollment leading to the addition of classrooms and dormitories. She also believes new parking lots will be added to accommodate the vehicles of numerous commuters. "We will see the rise in enrollment figures not only for the typical student, but for the older nontraditional student returning to school to learn a new skill or to launch a new career goal." Brown also says the athletic program will take a back seat to academic studies for the future student, and that newly constructed elevators will ease the problem of classroom access for handicapped and wheelchair students.

↑Dr. Thames speaks to members of the Brookhaven/Lincoln County Chamber of Commerce and to Co-Lin employees about the impact the college has on the county.

Dr. Thames Hopes For . . .

. . . growth in both students and the physical plant during the '90s. He anticipates this to be true on both the Wesson and Natchez campuses, and he expects the Natchez Campus to complete its move to the Beltline Site just south of the city. He adds, "The big change on the Wesson Campus will be a multipurpose facility that will serve as a basketball arena and general purpose facility. It will allow the college to bring 'big name' entertainment to the campus and will provide needed space for registration and student activities of all types." Dr. Thames concludes that the college will continue to be a quality institution preparing students to move on into the colleges and universities of the south or to assume their place in society.

Freshmen students are required to take placement tests during orientation.

Student Body

Variety — that's the appropriate word to use when describing the college's students as they enter the 1990's. There are and will continue to be variations in the way students act, dress, and study for exams. Many of the female students will preserve the personality of the "Valley Girl," while others will take on the character of "Lois Lane." Male students will maintain the "Punk Rock" clothing styles into the '90s, and others will go for the "Banana Republic" look. Also, while some co-eds will be studying a week ahead for a tough exam, many will try to fill their brains with the information the night before the test is given. Even with all of the diversity the next decade will bring, each member of the student body will continue to have one thing in common — a desire to learn as much as possible about the world around them.

Hall of Fame

Six outstanding students have been named to the college's Hall of Fame for 1989-90. Being a member of the Hall of Fame is the most distinguished honor a student can receive. Those selected are campus leaders, they have excellent grade point averages, show moral character, and contribute to the college through participation in activities and events. Students have been named to the Hall of Fame for 36 years.

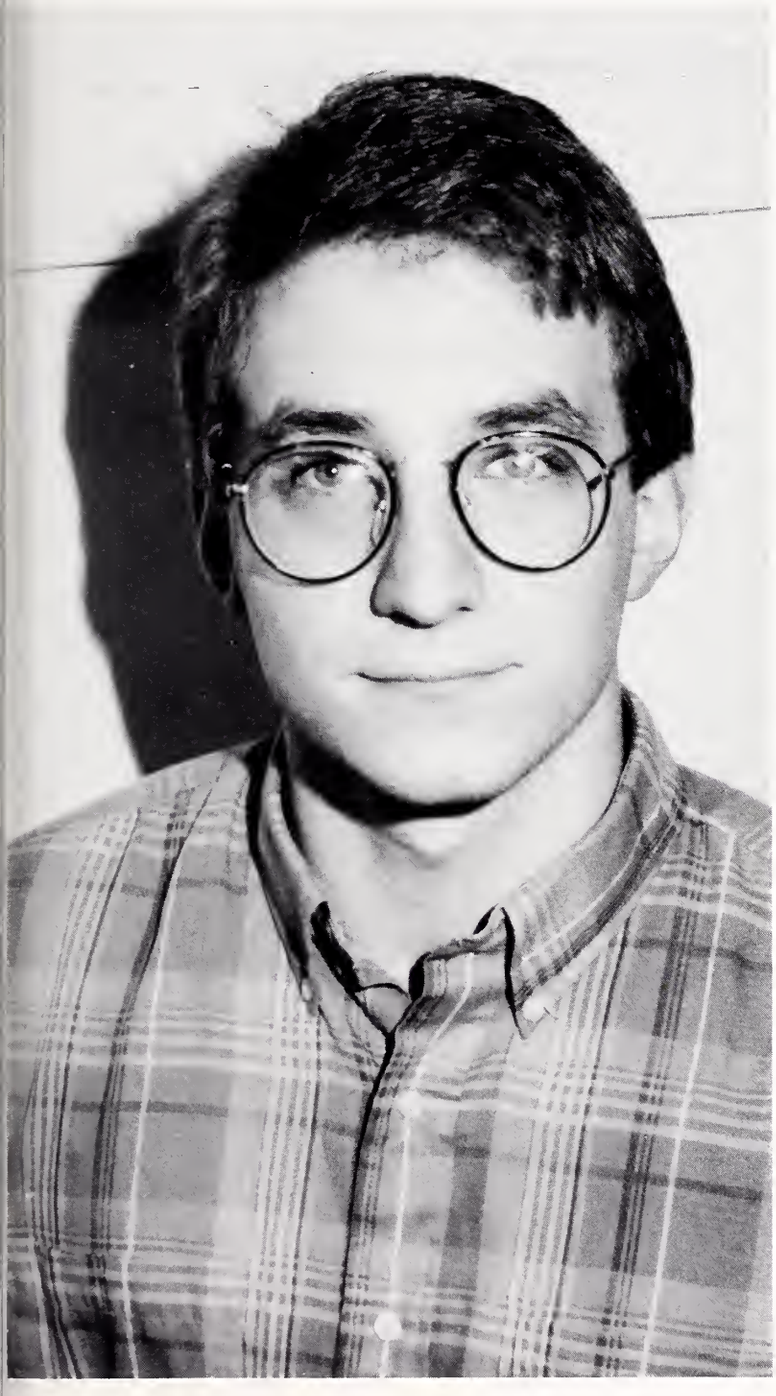
Chris Archie

Chris has been honored this year by the legislature as an outstanding student as part of the H.E.A.D.W.A.E. (Higher Education Appreciation Day, Working for Academic Excellence) program. Chris also serves as hug chairman for Phi Theta Kappa and as missions chairman for the Baptist Student Union. An engineering major from Bogue Chitto, Chris is also a member of Alpha Omega science fraternity, the Scholar's Bowl Team, and Who's Who Among American Junior College Students.



Reagan Brown

A native of Wesson, pre-pharmacy major Reagan Brown works in the college's science division as a laboratory assistant. He is also active in Phi Theta Kappa serving that organization as fund raising chairman. Reagan is a member of the Blue Wave Band's percussion section, of Alpha Omega science fraternity, and of the Scholar's Bowl Team. He is listed in Who's Who Among American Junior College Students for 1989-90.

Cindy Carr

Serving as executive editor of the Trillium yearbook, Cindy has had the responsibility of seeing that page layouts, photographs, and copy have been completed by deadline time. While putting together the yearbook, Cindy has also been able to maintain a high grade point average, and she has been active in the English Club, Phi Theta Kappa, and the President's Council. A psychology major from Monticello, Cindy is listed in Who's Who Among American Junior College Students.

Tim Lott

Tim, a pre-med major from New Hebron, was elected during the 1989-90 school year as Mr. Co-Lin. He served as freshman class vice president and currently serves as Student Government Association vice president. Tim was an escort during the fall homecoming festivities, and he is a cheerleader. He is a member of the Trailblazers hospitality and recruiting organization, the band, the Co-Lin Players dramatics club, the President's Council, and Who's Who Among American Junior College Students.

Jeff Posey

As a Phi Theta Kappa officer, Jeff is responsible for editing the organization's newsletter. An elementary education major from Brookhaven, Jeff also serves as president of the Future Teachers of American organization. He is an English Club officer, a member of the choir and President's Council, and he has been named to Who's Who Among American Junior College Students.

Rhonda Sanders

Rhonda serves as president of the Trailblazers hospitality and recruiting organization. She is a pre-nursing major who has been accepted to study at the University Medical Center. She also serves as vice president of Alpha Omega and as president of Copiah Hall. A resident of Fayette, Rhonda is on the President's Council and is listed in Who's Who Among American Junior College Students.

"Moving To The Beat"

Don Grimes of Monticello moves listeners to the beat of the college's radio station, WCLL, 90.7 on the FM dial. As a disc jockey for the station, Grimes works a noon to 2 p.m. shift one day a week. Disc jockeys get one hour credit for their work at the station which is on the air Monday through Thursday, noon to midnight, and Sundays, 6 p.m. to midnight. Programming rock n' roll music during the week, the station plays gospel on Sundays.

"Move Out Of Our Way"

Wolves running back Tim Fuller of Hazlehurst, far right, gains some yardage against the Jones County defense as running backs Shelton May and Shun Bridges, both of Monticello, make sure he has plenty of room to run. The Wolves defeated the JCJC Bobcats 39-34 in their first south division game of the season, going on to beat East Central and Northeast before losing to nationally ranked Northwest.

"It Just Won't Move"

Kip Rollins of Roxie, a student in the college's auto mechanics program, tries to get this old blue pickup truck moving again. Co-Lin's auto mechanics curriculum prepares individuals to engage in the service, maintenance, adjustment, and repair of automotive components and systems. Offered through the vocational-technical division, the program is certified by the National Institute of Automotive Service Excellence.

"Keep On Moving, Don't Stop"

Nothing gets in the way of wheelchair racer Kevin Kimble of Wesson, not even his handicap. Kimble, who was paralyzed in an auto accident, is now ranked second in the state in wheelchair racing. Practicing on the college track and on the streets of Wesson, Kimble's maximum downhill speed is 40 miles per hour. He said, "I don't do it to show off, but to prove to everyone that I'm not helpless - that I can do it."

"Smile And Don't Move"

Auto Mechanics Instructor Joe Ratcliff tells a student to "be still" while he snaps an I.D. photo during fall registration. Ratcliff has become a professional at "quick-shooting" as over a thousand students pass through the registration line in a two day period. Ratcliff claims his job is fairly easy until the line gets long and the students get grumpy.

"Moving To Beverly ..."

..... Hills, that is, swimming pools and movie stars?? No, certainly not Magee native John McCallum who knows that the girls are the prettiest in the south. McCallum likes to impress those southern girls too. An active part of the student body, he is a member of the cheerleading squad and plays the baritone in the "Blue Wave" marching band. Our photographer caught up with him sitting on an old tractor at the golf course "just relaxing."

"Moving On Down The Road"

It looks like a modern version of a scene from the musical "Oklahoma." However, it's Co-Lin students traveling around on homecoming day in the college's "pretty little surry with the fringe on the top." Trailblazer Chad Fisher of Bogue Chitto is shown driving Phi Theta Kappa members Casey Campbell of Gloster and Chris Archie of Bogue Chitto, to another campus location.

"Move Over Mr. Walker"

College alumnus Eb Allen asks Burlian Walker, executive director of the foundation/alumni affairs, to make room for a Co-Lin graduate. Allen, along with most members of the Allen clan, graduated from the college and come back each year to celebrate homecoming. Walker announced during the alumni luncheon on Oct. 7 that the Allen family had the most members present at this year's festivities.

"Move The Test Date"

Science Instructor Donnie Lawson tries to instill the concepts of general biology in the minds of his students five days a week, 10 months a year. However, these students are hoping their instructor will put off the upcoming test which others claim is a "doozy." All college students are required to take biology before graduating from college. Considered a freshman course, many students elect to get the course over with during their first year, and others put it off until they become sophomores.

"Moving The Goods"

Phi Theta Kappa President Casey Campbell, far left, has PTK members busy selling corsages at homecoming. Each year PTK undertakes projects such as this to raise money for the organization. The funds are used to send members to the national PTK convention and leadership conference. Helping Campbell in his flower fund-raising efforts are, from left, Tanya Halford, Chris Archie, and Jennifer Holliday.

"Moving Minds"

Sophomore Kurt Kirton of Terry, looks up some reference material in the college's Oswalt Library. The library contains more than 39,000 books and bound periodicals, 225 current periodical subscriptions, and 14 local, state, regional, and national newspapers. A typing room, computer room, and study areas are provided for students to use. Also, citizens of the seven-county area can borrow material from the facility. In providing this service, the college is not only moving the minds of students, but those of the general public as well.

"Which Way Should I Move?"

Derek Kyzar of Cleburne, Texas, can't figure out which way to go on the Co-Lin golf course even though the red arrow plainly points in the right direction. The golf course, just one of the college's many recreational facilities, is open to anyone who wants to play. A regular tournament is played on the course each week when weather permits, and special tournaments such as the annual homecoming competitions for men and women are scheduled. Coach Alton Greenlee manages the nine hole course.

Mr. and Miss Co-Lin
Tim Lott & Angela Lee

New Hebron Duo Elected

Mr. and Miss Co-Lin for 1989-90 are Tim Lott and Angela Lee, both of New Hebron. Those selected as Mr. and Miss Co-Lin must be sophomores, must be in line for graduation, must have twice as many qualities points as hours, and must have a clean conduct record.

They must also have participated in various campus activities as leaders. Lott is a member of the Blue Wave marching band, and is a cheerleader, Trailblazer, biology lab assistant and vice president of the Student Government Association. He is also a member of the Co-Lin Players and is listed in Who's Who Among American Junior College Students.

Lee represented the college during homecoming as a sophomore maid. She is a member of the Co-Lin Players, the Preschool Association for Students, Teachers, and Educators, and the Microcosm literary magazine staff.

Lott is a pre-med major and is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry C. Lott. Lee is majoring in child development technology and is the daughter of Bobby Frank and Charlotte Lee.

Who's Who Set Lasting Example

The 1990 edition of Who's Who Among Students in American Junior Colleges will include the names of 45 students from the college who have been selected as national outstanding campus leaders. They are individuals whom other students turn to for guidance and advice. They are the leaders that others follow.

Campus nominating committees and editors of the Who's Who directory have included the names of these students based on their academic achievement, service to the community, leadership in extracurricular activities, and potential for continued success. They join an elite group of students selected from more than 1,400 institutions of higher learning in all 50 states, the District of Columbia, and several foreign nations.

Favorites Chosen Annually

Each year 10 favorites, five men and five women, are selected by the student body. However, before being voted on, the candidates must first turn in a nomination form signed by 15 students or one Student Government Association officer. Then the form must be signed by one faculty member and the director of admissions. Forms are submitted to the dean of students. Runners-up to Mr. and Miss Co-Lin are automatically elected as favorites, and any freshman or sophomore is eligible to run. This year the student body chose 10 sophomores to represent them as campus favorites, each with his or her own distinct personality. These personalities combine to illustrate the friendly atmosphere at Co-Lin.

Each campus favorite likes to do his or her own thing. John McCallum plays in the band, while Victor Green is member of the football team. Kip Rollins enjoys working on automobile engines, while Dixi Williams and David Montgomery are musically inclined. All of this year's favorites are also involved in campus organizations such as the college choir, Afro-American Plus Club, VICA, Student Government Association, BSU, and the Wesley Foundation, to name a few. This group likes to be a part of whatever is going on around the campus, and they like getting to know the other students who are interested in similar activites.

Night of Anticipation

Expectations are high on the night the college's Most Beautiful co-ed is chosen, and the 1989 Trillium Beauty Pageant was no exception. Sophomore Terri Dunaway walked away with the title. She is the daughter of Terry and Margie Dunaway. Also, representing the college as homecoming queen, Dunaway is an active member of the student body and is involved in several campus organizations. She is no stranger to the pageant scene, having been chosen a beauty during her freshman year and a homecoming maid. The pageant is sponsored each year by the yearbook staff.

A Time Of Reunion

Alumni from 14 states gathered on the campus in October to celebrate a memorable time in their lives. The college strives each year to make homecoming day as unique as possible. College President Dr. Billy Thames said of the '89 homecoming festivities, "I saw students working on exhibits which were the best we've ever seen. I also saw administrators, faculty and staff members working together to see that everything was properly organized and coordinated."

Students even commented on this year's celebration. Fritz Games of Brookhaven, said, "It was uniquely organized with a touch of class. I hope my reunion will be as nice." Others expressed their opinions on how nice the homecoming court and band looked during the football game.

Burlian Walker, who is in charge of alumni affairs for the college, said, "It was a tremendous day, and many alumni who hadn't been here in years returned to the campus." The annual homecoming festivities will endure far into the '90s and into the 21st century.

⬆Terri Dunaway of Brookhaven, was crowned as the 1989 homecoming queen. Her escort was Brian Rutland of Jayess.

➡The Vocational-Industrial Clubs of America (VICA) organization won first place in the homecoming display competition. Phi Beta Lambda placed second, and the Wolf Tales/Trillium staffs combined efforts for a third place finish.

Second row, escorts Wendell Walker, New Hebron; Derek Kyzar, Cleburne, Texas; Fritz Games and Edward Thompson, both of Brookhaven; Jeffrey Mullen, Natchez; Brian Rutland, Jayess; Tim Lott, New Hebron; Eric Jones, Panama City, Fla.; John Bullen, Jeff Taylor, and Jon Smith, all of Natchez.

Stepping Into The Limelight

As the homecoming maids and their escorts stepped onto the football field for the presentation of the court, they knew it was their day to be in the spotlight. Weeks of preparation had gone into making sure everything would be perfect. Dresses had been bought, altered, and matched with accessories, while suits and ties were color coordinated. Even before picking out the right outfit, members of the court busily campaigned for votes from fellow students. All of the work that had been put into the effort immediately seemed worth it all as the court walked onto the field in their beautiful attire with proud smiles adding the finishing touch.

⬆State Bank's Vice President of Marketing, Ann Hawkins, was chosen an outstanding alumnus of the year. Hawkins is a resident of Brookhaven.

⬅College alumni certainly did not go hungry during homecoming. Delicious food was prepared by the cafeteria and the professional food service students.

Outstanding In The Nineties

Sophomore Chris Archie of Bogue Chitto and Mathematics Division Chairman Dr. Roy Daughdrill have been named the turn-of-the-decade outstanding student and faculty member for the district. For the third year, the Mississippi legislature is honoring community college students and teachers who have exhibited excellence in academics. Those selected are honored each year before the legislature and at a banquet.

Chris is a mechanical engineering major at Co-Lin, and he is active in several organizations. He serves as hug chairman for Phi Theta Kappa and plans many of PTK's activities. He is also the PTK regional president for Mississippi, Louisiana, and Tennessee. As a member of the Baptist Student Union, Chris is the mission's chairman and coordinates visits to area nursing homes. He also serves as Phi Beta Lambda vice president.

A graduate of Bogue Chitto High School, Chris was named all-county and all-district in football, and he was a member of the baseball team. Before coming to BCHS, Chris attended Topeka-Tilton High School where he was Beta Club secretary, a class officer, a member of the Future Farmers of America, and the newspaper staff. He also helped organize the school's Students Against Drugs (SAD) chapter.

Dr. Daughdrill is currently serving as mathematics division chairman, a position he has held since 1974. A member of the faculty since 1970, Dr. Daughdrill was named Co-Lin's outstanding instructor for 1985 and received the National Teaching Excellence award from the National Institute for Staff and Organizational Development (NISOD) this year. He was also named Star Teacher by the Mississippi Economic Council in 1970.

He has served as chairman of Standard III - Educational Program for Co-Lin's self study from 1983-85. He coordinated the establishment of a microcomputer curriculum and labs for the college's academic program and coordinated the establishment of a mastery learning individualized developmental math program. Daughdrill is a member of the National Council of Teachers of Mathematics, the Mathematical Association of America, and the Mississippi Council of Teachers of Mathematics, serving as junior college vice president for 1989-90. He is also active in the Mississippi Teachers of College Mathematics, the Mississippi Junior College Faculty Association, and Co-Lin's Education Association.

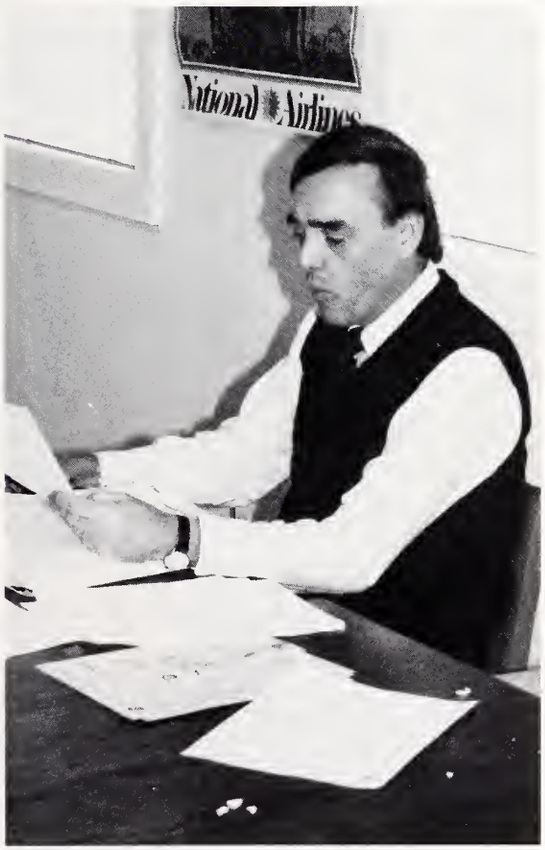
The Scholar's Bowl Team is following one track as it "thinks" itself into the future, and the road they are traveling is the "scholarly way." Chosen from dozens of fellow students to compete as Co-Lin's entry in the 1990 Scholar's Bowl, these four fellows are among the college's brightest. Held at the University of Mississippi each spring, community college students converge on the campus to compete for thousands of dollars in scholarship prizes. The two day competition has team members answering questions concerning science, humanities, mathematics, business, and fine arts. Each year Co-Lin's team comes home pleased with their performance, while also bringing back several awards and prizes.



↑Durr Walker, chairman of the college's Humanities Division, serves as sponsor of the Scholar's Bowl Team. Known as "The Great Quizzer," Walker asks the team hundreds and hundreds of questions, preparing the students for competition.

Organizations

Student activities for those enrolled at Co-Lin will continue into the '90s, providing those involved with curricular and extracurricular organization participation. The college currently offers numerous activities for students outside of the classroom, and it is predicted that the number of campus organizations will increase in the next ten years. Students are demanding a wider variety in the types of clubs available. Moreover, these clubs will receive more and more recognition on the district, state, regional, and national levels. Proof of this can be seen in the number of awards which have already been "brought home" by the different groups.

The college now offers membership in curricular organizations such as VICA, Future Teachers of America, Phi Beta Lambda, Phi Theta Kappa and the English Club, just to name a few. Extracurricular involvement can be seen in the Afro-American Plus Club, Shutterbugs photography club, band, intramural sports, choir, and varsity athletics.

Whether it's taking that almost perfect picture or writing down the memorable words someone has spoken, the Wolf Tales newspaper staff is in action. Sing And Celebrate

The college choir has done a lot of merrymaking and celebrating into the new decade, performing their annual Christmas concert and caroling at the Governor's Mansion. The choir works hard all year round and their dedication is evident in the excellent sound they produce during both semesters. "It gets tiring sometimes, practicing week after week," says choir member Michelle Osborne of Meadville, "but it all seems worth it when you sing your heart out and then hear the applause from the audience."

Nursing Is A Practical Choice

As the '90s move toward the 21st century, nursing will remain one of the most practical fields for students to enter. Not only do licensed practical nurses make excellent salaries, but the jobs are plentiful as well. Anyone flipping through the employment sections of newspapers from major southern cities can see the evidence. The nursing field also proves to be personally rewarding, and the college's Student Practical Nursing Club is a good place to get in on the benefits of a satisfying career.

Keeping Time

Keeping time to the music isn't hard for the Sojourners, the college's vocal performing group. The Sojourners also don't have a difficult time in being able to bellow out music. Whether it's an old favorite such as "Somewhere Over the Rainbow" or a more recent hit like "Wind Beneath My Wings," the group can add a little magic to whatever the musical selection. Traveling around the seven county area throughout the school year, the Sojourners are requested for performances by civic clubs, high schools, and other organizations. The group has grown each year in number as well as in showmanship, and they enter the 1990's as one of the college's most prestigious groups.

Always On The Go

It shouldn't phase Phi Theta Kappa that the college is entering a different dimension as the year 2000 approaches because they are too busy to let a mere time change affect their projects. Phi Theta Kappa members can be found just about anywhere on campus, any time of the day or night. It's not out of the ordinary to find PTKers at a basketball game raising funds for former Ole Miss football player Chuck Mullins, or to find them on the side of Highway 51 doing their part to "Keep America Beautiful". Known as the college's scholastic fraternity, the Eta Omega chapter of PTK is one of the most respected in the nation, bringing home state, regional, and national awards each year.

Lights, Camera, Action

A fun hobby for several students on campus is taking photographs, developing the film, and then printing the pictures. Members of the Shutterbugs photography club admit that being a member of the paparazzi is exciting, but it's not always easy. One club member says, "Sometimes the flash doesn't go off, sometimes the subject I'm trying to take pictures of won't cooperate, and sometimes my film comes out of the developing tank with no images on it." As this group has learned, getting the "perfect" photograph that really "says something" isn't as easy as it looks.

Planning The Future

Those who are members of the Student Government Association don't take their positions for granted. As members of the SGA, representatives spend their meeting time planning activities and events which may affect the lives of fellow students for years to come. The group usually meets twice a month to consider such things as whether or not to participate in a statewide drug abuse workshop or in a diabetes walk-a-thon. The SGA also holds dances for the student body throughout the school year. How can a group like this lead their classmates astray when they are working during a 7 a.m. meeting?

Bustin' Loose

Campus radio station WCLL-FM is bustin' loose as it plays the turn-of-the-decade Top 40 hits. Student disc jockeys who work at the station receive one hour of credit for working their shifts, and many also take the Introduction to Radio Broadcasting course which offers three hours of credit. WCLL-FM operates Monday through Thursday from 12 noon to 12 midnight, Friday from 12 noon to 6 p.m., and Sunday from 3 p.m. to 12 midnight. Weekday broadcasting consists of music from the current Billboard charts, while the music played on Sundays is contemporary gospel.

A Common Courtesy

A trademark has been established among the college's recruiting organization, the Trailblazers, that they are the most hospitable group on the campus. Well, of course, they are - don't be ridiculous. Common courtesy is a part of their job as members of the Trailblazers. Not only do they go into the high schools in the seven county area to recruit new students, but they also help out during campus activities and events. Acting as hosts or hostesses, the Trailblazers can be seen just about every day, greeting audiences at a play, showing other students around the campus, or taking up tickets at the beauty pageant. The cordiality of the group will certainly continue each year as the group says goodbye to old members and gains many new ones.

On The Brink Of Perfection

In his 20 years as director of the college's Blue Wave band, Stanley Stewart has brought the group into tip-top form. And behind the flashy silver and royal blue uniforms lies the student teamwork that leads the band into a modern era as superior performers. Co-Lin's band is composed of over 100 marchers, including 42 wind players, 19 percussion members, 20 color guard participants, 15 Colette dancers, a drum major, and seven band managers. Director Stewart said, "I feel like everything has fallen nicely into place."

Two Steps Forward

The Co-Lin band is always at least two steps ahead of everyone else. The group begins practicing for the marching season before other students have thought about beginning school for the fall term. They also arrive at football games before the crowd arrives. However, what is even more impressive about this "team," is their willingness to stay around and play the college fight song after the fans have all gone home.

The Love For Cheering Endures

Only love for a job can make people work even harder than is necessary. Take the Co-Lin cheerleaders for example. They cheered through the mosquito attacks at the first football game of the 1989 season, stomped through mud and pepped up the fans at the same time and rode to games in a small van that also carried all of their equipment. Only a love for cheering could get a group of college students to endure such situations. However, there also seems to be a bond formed between each cheerleader that keeps them yelling day after day, game after game, year after year. It is a bond that is envied by many and held by only a few.

Sports

The college's athletic program is taking many turns as it enters the new decade, with new faces filling already established positions. Wolves Head Coach Ray Ishee has become the school's dean of students, and Assistant Football Coach Randall Bradberry has taken over as head coach. In basketball action, Lady Wolves Coach Gwyn Young has assumed the duties of athletic director.

Even though these changes are occurring, there is one thing that this reorganization will not affect - Co-Lin's winning tradition. The college has established itself as an institution that loves to win at whatever it competes for, and the records of the football, basketball, tennis, and softball teams show that the tradition is still alive. During the next ten years, sports fans will continue to support Co-Lin's athletic teams and its enthusiasm for coming out on top.

Wolves Make It In The Long Run

Many fans questioned whether or not the Wolfpack would make it to the state playoffs during the 1989 season as they had done the year before. However, with what Head Coach Ray Ishee called "a really good group of guys," the Wolves not only made it to the first round of the playoffs, but also captured the state's south division championship. The team was upset by Mississippi Delta on Nov. 9, crushing the Wolves' chance to meet Northwest in the state finals. An overall 1989 season record of 9-2 took the question mark out of the minds of Wolfpack fans.

Along with the winning season came the selection of several players to all-region, all-state, and all-star teams. Mark Lowe, Dexter Roulhac, Bo Davis, Michael Williams, and Victor Green were chosen to the all-region team. Lowe and Roulhac were also named to the all-state first team offense, with Roulhac being chosen most valuable back. Second team offense honors went to Shun Bridges, Dejuan Singleton, Lonnie McLemore, and Paige Herring.

First team defensive players were Davis, Williams and Green, with Davis being named most valuable defensive lineman. All-state second team players were Clarence Wheeler, Cedric Tobias, and Greg Briggs. South division all-stars included Roulhac, Singleton, Williams, Green, Lowe, and Davis.

"Hanging Tough" In 1989-90

The Wolves basketball team has been "hanging tough" this season with more wins than losses. However, south division opponents such as Gulf Coast and Hinds haven't given the team any slack. During the season, guard Louis Davis has been leading all scorers for the Wolves with a 16 points per game percentage, while post player James Barnes has been averaging 15 ppg. Guard Terry Cameron and forward Eartis Bridges have seen their ppg average peak around 15 and 10 each. In rebound percentages, Barnes has been leading the pack with 8, with Bridges averaging 5. Barnes also has led in the blocked shot category throughout the season.

The Wolves made it to the Region 23 Tournament as the #6 seed and upset #1 seed Hinds 95-84. Co-Lin couldn't quite make it past Gulf Coast in the semi-finals and lost a heart-stopper to the Bulldogs, 82-81.

Putting Forth A Little Effort

The Wolves have definitely hustled their way into the 1990's and have put forth that little extra bit of effort that's needed to be the best. What makes the winning season of 1989-90 so important is that every player has given all he has to the game. Sure there have been a few losses, but even in those games it has been clearly evident that each player has given 110 percent. Coach Johnson said during preseason practice that "if we play as close to our capabilities as possible, we'll come out on top." That's exactly what has happened during the season. The players put all of that hustle into a quick thinking team effort that has been at its best during the 1989-90 basketball season.

Ain't No Stoppin' Us Now

↑Coach Young follows a referee down the court questioning a call.

With a team like the Lady Wolves have had during the 1989-90 season, there's just no way to stop them. Throughout the year, the team has crept silently up the national poll ladder. It's no wonder, though, not with all the talent that Coach Gywn Young has seen on the hardwood this season. During the season, the Lady Wolves have averaged around 76 points per game to their opponents' 55 ppg. Three of the starting five have been averaging 15 points per game, with LSU signee Tara Curtis bringing down 9 rebounds per game. Curtis has also averaged 5 blocked shots per game. Coach Young said of his team, "We've been doing well, and I'm very pleased."

The Lady Wolves captured the South Division Tournament by defeating the East Central Warriors 77-65. However, the Lady Wolves lost to Northeast in the State Tournament and were beaten by Northwest in the finals of the Region 23 Tournament.

They've Got Chemistry

Coach Gwyn Young said of his Lady Wolves at the beginning of the fall term, "If the players can get along, work hard, and if we can achieve the right chemistry in the games, then we'll have a really good season." Well, achieve that "chemistry" is exactly what the ladies have done during the 1989-90 season. The great team work that has been seen during the season didn't start with the first game, however, it began in early August with practice, after practice, after practice. According to Coach Young, the players seem to also understand that the college seems to have a second sense for "winning," and the Lady Wolves of 1989-90 have shown everyone that they can definitely carry on an old tradition.

Lots Of Potential

Tennis Coach Mike McIntyre said of his team at the beginning of the season, "We've never started with a group with as much potential as these guys have." Returning for the Wolves this season is sophomore Chris Giordano of New Orleans who teamed with a player from last season to capture the #1 state doubles title. Also back for the Wolves is Mike McCann of Thibodaux, La., Corey Verrett of Morgan City, La., and Vincent Ross of Natchez. Coach McIntyre said, "These four guys should make us very strong at the top of the singles line-up, and all four should be nationally ranked by the season's end." First year players include Wyatt Sharp and Paul Leake, both of Natchez, Brian Porter of Wesson, Zeke Panzica of Brookhaven, Tyson Nelson of Monticello, and Michael Blanton of Magee.

Catching The Fever

Each year around the end of February, baseball players at Co-Lin seem to have a nervous kind of anticipation. They begin to talk a little faster, walk with an extra bounce in their step, and eat more than usual. It's the excitement of baseball season that's in the air. The thought of putting on new uniforms, traveling across the state, and beating some big rivals, occupies every inch of the players' minds. The team plays around 25 doubleheaders during the months of March and April, with about 20 of the games played on the road. Baseball fever isn't just caught by baseball players at Co-Lin, it's an American tradition, like eating apple pie, that millions seem to catch each spring.

Volleyball Slams Into The '90s

The "Slammers" volleyball team will go down in the history books as the turn-of-the-decade champions. Even though the faculty team took top honors in 1988-89, the team wasn't up to form against the "Slammers" student team in the 1989-90 tournament. The important factors which won the title for the "Slammers" were the extra long arms of net player Willie Harris and the excellent serves of team member Darryl Slay. What went wrong for the faculty? Shortness of breath, tight muscles, and slow reflexes. However, revenge may be in the minds of faculty members as the 1990-91 championships approach.

➡Score keeper Joey Perrone of Hammond, La., watches the game closely even though his score cards show the "Slammers" with a big lead.

Sporting It

Students have an easy time "sporting it" on the Co-Lin campus. The college offers co-eds all kinds of intramural and varsity sports activities to become involved in when they aren't in the classroom. Intramural events include volleyball, ping pong, pool, basketball, flag football and softball. For those participating in varsity athletics, choices include football, basketball, tennis, baseball, softball, golf, and track. Credit classes in aerobics, weightlifting, tennis/badminton, and golf are listed on the fall and spring course schedules, and students are encouraged to choose at least two hours from these physical education classes.

Natchez Campus

Co-Lin Natchez is on the move. The 480 students attending the two campuses are commuters. Some work full-time others part-time. Some have children, and all, try to keep up a social life as well as GPA's.

On our campus, students, faculty and staff share a special relationship. Everybody knows everybody else. We play pool together. We study together. We lament with each other over not so good test scores, and congratulate each other when our hard studying pays off.

Dedicated instructors challenge us to reach our full potential, inside and outside the classroom. Instructors are sponsors for clubs. They are tutors and counselors. Our small classes allow them to give us individualized attention. Their office doors are always open for a private conference.

SGA, PTK, PBL VICA, Usher's Guild, Circle K, DECA, the Writer's Club, N-Sights, and Trillium encourage students to get involved. Through weekly meetings, community projects, and state competition and conferences, students form close bonds.

Great things come in small packages. We may be small, but we are great!

CO LIN

The Place to Be.

Sandra Davidson Acting Associate Dean Keeps Us Moving

Mrs. Sandra Lloyd Davidson was named acting associate dean of the Natchez Campus in June, 1989, following the resignation of Dr. Charles Edward Meadows.

Mrs. Davidson has served as Director of Admissions and Records at the Natchez Campus since August, 1979. She is secretary-treasurer of the Mississippi Association of Collegiate Registrars and Admissions Officers, a member of the Mississippi Counseling Association and the Association of Mississippi Junior College Counselors as well as other regional and statewide organizations.

A member of Grace United Methodist Church of Natchez, Mrs. Davidson and her husband Charles are parents of two daughters, Madeline Davidson and Laura Merritt and one grandson.

➡Always smiling, understanding, compassionate, Mrs. D. is our mentor and friend.

➡Though new at the job, Mrs. Davidson seems to have things under control!

Dr. Joey H. Paul Receives Natchez Dedication

The 1989-90 Natchez section of the Trillium is dedicated to Dr. Joey H. Paul. Dr. Paul has been an instructor of mathematics at the Natchez campus since its opening in 1972. Prior to joining the Copiah-Lincoln/Natchez faculty, he taught at Louisiana Tech University in Ruston and at the University of Southern Mississippi at the Natchez campus.

Dr. Paul is a graduate of Louisiana Tech University with a Bachelor of Science and a Master of Science degree in mathematics. He is also a graduate of the University of Southwestern Louisiana in Lafayette with a Ph. D in statistics. Dr. Paul is a member of the national, Louisiana, and Mississippi chapters of the Mathematical Association of America. In addition, he is a member of the American Statistical Association.

A noted author and publisher, Dr. Paul has had several articles appear in Communication in Statistics and in the College Mathematics Journal.

Dr. Paul often serves as a statistical consultant and advisor for Copiah-Lincoln Community College and for doctoral candidates who are working on their dissertations.

Dr. Paul is the husband of Olivia Rhodes Paul and the proud father of three children: Karianne, Katie, and Joseph. He is also a treasured friend of the faculty, staff, and students.

Movers And Shakers In Natchez

Mr. and Miss Co-Lin Natchez

Mr. Co-Lin, Jeffery Mullen is the son of Mrs. Ruthie Mullen and the late Henry Mullen of Grenada, Mississippi. He is a business major who works part-time at Kroger and spends one weekend a month with the Army Reserve. On campus, Jeffery is a member of Phi Beta Lambda and Vice-President of the Student Government Association. He enjoys music, sports, and body building.

Miss Co-Lin, Yolanda Ellis, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Willie Joe Ellis of Natchez. She is an Administrative Support Services major. A full-time student, Yolanda works in the Learning Center as a clerical aide. She is president of Phi Beta Lambda and a member of the Usher's Guild and Trillium staff. Yolanda enjoys cooking, especially cakes, and singing with the Spiritualities. She is the secretary of Youth Purity Women Workers at her church.

Sophomore Favorites

Donna Stampley, an Elementary Education major, is President of SGA, a member of PTK and the Trillium staff. Tammy McDaniel, a pharmacy major, is editor of Trillium, Vice-President of PTK, a member of Circle K, and sophomore representative for SGA. John Bullen, a Hotel-Motel Restaurant Management major, is photographer for N-Sights and Trillium. Nikke Smoot, an Administrative Clerk major, is Vice President of PBL and a member of the Usher's Guild. Georgette McClain, a Micro-Computer Information major, is treasurer of PBL.

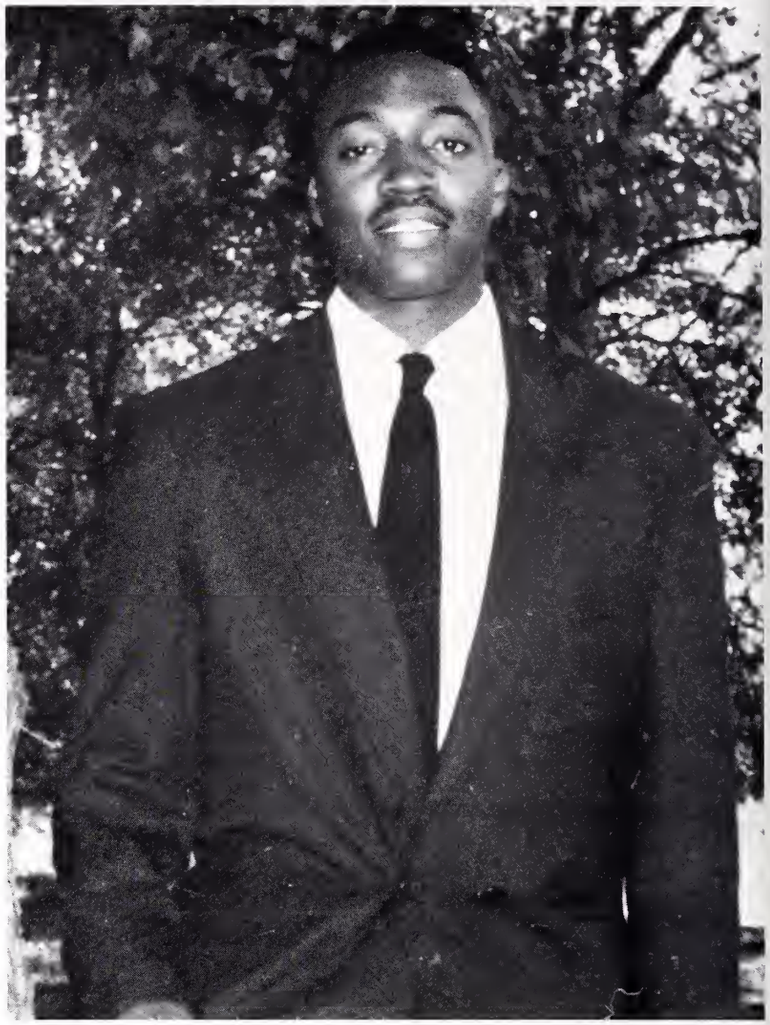
Freshman Favorites

Pamela Weatherly, a nursing major, plans to transfer to USM. Joy Harper is a nursing major and a member of Trillium. Lorenzo Stamley, an elementary education major, is freshman representative for SGA and a member of Trillium. Tammy Lichty is a Banking and Finance major. She was elected homecoming freshman maid.

Hall Of Fame

Tammy Lee McDaniel

A pharmacy major, Tammy is active in clubs at the Natchez Campus. She keeps busy as vice president of Phi Theta Kappa, secretary of Circle K and Trillium editor. Tammy also holds a full-time job at Treasury Drugs. Even with her hectic schedule, Tammy stays on the Dean's List, was chosen Student of the Month for September and is listed in Who's Who Among American Junior Colleges. Tammy also works as a math tutor in the Special Services Learning Center. She is the daughter of Georgia and Bill Jones and Jackie and Jean McDaniel.



Jeffery Earl Mullen

When Jeffery is not busy weekends in the Army National Guard, he is working at Kroger and studying. Jeffery is a business major who is vice president of the Student Government Association and a member of Phi Beta Lambda. When the SGA needs work completed, they always call on Jeffery. The son of Ruthie Mae Mullen and the late Henry Mullen, Jeffery also has a daughter, Brittney Nicole Mullen.

Angela Olier Waller

A biology major, Angie remains consistently on the Dean's and President's List. She is vice president of Circle K and secretary/treasurer of Phi Theta Kappa. Angie represented the Natchez Campus in the Scholar's Bowl this year. A math tutor for Student Support Services, she quietly helps students with the intricacies of college algebra. In high school, Angie was chosen Miss South Natchez, head cheerleader and Homecoming Queen. Angie is married to Wayne W. Waller and is the daughter of Richard and Cora Olier.

Natchez Hall of Fame 1978-1990

To be chosen to the Hall of Fame is the highest honor that can be given to a Copiah-Lincoln Community College student. Each was nominated in open nominations and approved by a screening committee on the basis of character, leadership, and contribution to Copiah-Lincoln Community College.

. . . On The Road To Somewhere Else

"College," according to Tom Robbins "is always on the road to somewhere else." For a college education provides us with some knowledge of the past, some vision about the future and yes, even some questions about the present. It arms us with skills to investigate and question the obvious and the not-so-obvious. It challenges us to ask the question "why" and then motivates us to find the answer. A college education not only equips us with skills to do some useful service, but it also creates an urge in us to use that service to better the community and the world in which we live.

Dunn retires. The word library is synonymous with Willie Mae Dunn. After the Natchez Campus opened in 1973, she set up the library from scratch. Since that time she has twice survived the complete dismantling of the library — once for a site move and once for renovation.

Mrs. Dunn is not only a librarian in name. She is an avid reader. Just ask her for suggestion for good reading material, and she always has a recommendation.

Goodbye, Mrs. Dunn. You will be missed. We all hope that you spend your time on safari's and bird watching outings and doing all those wonderful things that you enjoy.

"It seems that we only get together to eat and for faculty meetings," Sandra Davidson acting associate dean said, "but what gatherings!"

The Natchez faculty and staff number at fifty full-time employees with a fluctuating number of part-time faculty. We work well together as a group, always looking to the goal of making Co-Lin "the place to be."

This year Melanie Warren, Joyce Calcote, and Rhonda Coleman have joined the faculty. Michael Pevey is our new counselor, and Carl Roberts is the new head of maintenance.

Many changes have taken place in the last year. "1989 saw a name change for Co-Lin. We evolved from 'Junior' to 'Community' College, a true reflection of our goal to serve the community," Dean Gibson said.

Sandra Davidson took over as acting associate dean and is doing an excellent job.

Overall the atmosphere at Co-Lin Natchez is positive. We know we are providing a needed service and doing a good job of it.

Carolyn Vance Smith, Becky Holloway, and Kenneth Taylor have worked for months on the upcoming "Natchez Literary Celebration," sponsored by the Natchez Co-Lin Campus.

The event, planned for June, will bring such noted authors as Eudora Welty, Dr. Margaret Alexander, and Dr. Douglas Lewis of the National Gallery of Art to Natchez for a three day celebration of our literary legacy.

Events for the celebration include ten scholarly lectures with former governor William Winter directing the proceedings. Other events will be tours of the southern end of the Trace, stops at the Grand Village of the Natchez Indians, Emerald Mound and Brandon Hall. Welty's "The Robber Bridegroom" will be performed by the Natchez Little Theatre. A picnic on the bluff and parties at Melrose and Stanton Hall will round out the weekend of entertainment.

Smith, Holloway, and Taylor have worked untiringly to make this event a success. They deserve a round of applause.

Moving Force

Our faculty and staff are busy people going about the business of making Co-Lin a better place to be. Dr. Joey Paul regularly gets his articles published in prestigious college mathematics journals while Kenneth Taylor, Becky Holloway and Carolyn Vance Smith prepare for the Literary Festival planned for next June. Robert Smith has just completed all the course work for his Ph.D. in Higher Education Administration. Kathy Madden, Mike Pevey and Mariea Torrey are involved in upper level courses while other faculty and staff take special interest courses to improve their "social skills."

Always looking for ways to make Co-Lin the true community college, the faculty teach special interest classes to reach that part of the community who are ready for new learning experiences but not for college credit. Each instructor also offers, free of charge through the STAR program, talks in their field of expertise to clubs, schools and churches.

On The Move . . .

Student Support Services is designed to provide opportunities for students who have a deficiency in basic reading, math, and English. It also provides opportunities for students to sharpen their learning skills in other disciplines.

Students eligible for this program must be: 1) first generation college students, 2) low income, 3) handicapped, or 4) academically deficient in one or more of the basic subject areas.

Services provided by the Student Support Services Program are: peer tutors, instructor tutors, computer assisted learning, audio visual aids, books, filmstrips, academic advising and counseling, personal and career counseling, and mini workshops.

The mini workshops, often referred to as ''brown bag workshops'', are usually offered during the lunch hour three times a semester. Instructors, staff, and local professionals conduct these sessions. Topics such as ''Self-Esteem'', ''How to Apply for Financial Aid'', ''Job Interviewing Skills'', and many others are covered.

Fancy Moves Are In!

Flower arranging, computer programming, oil painting - if the community asks for a class, we try to offer it!

Mr. Comer, Special Interest coordinator, says, "The Natchez Campus of Co-Lin offers classes of special interest for the continuing educational opportunity of those living in Natchez and the surrounding area who wish to develop new skills, to acquire training for job opportunities, or to upgrade skills needed in their present occupations. These classes are offered at various times throughout the year, depending upon the needs and requests of the community, with qualified instructors with as minimal a fee as possible.

Requests for classes will be considered if ten or more people show interest for an additional course. Co-Lin is a community college and these classes are presented for the community.

Movers Take A Break

The hall in the classroom wing at Washington is the meeting place. The chairs by Wiggins' history class always have someone in them who is willing to talk.

We all moan and commiserate over the next big test or the one just past. We discuss world issues and who is dating whom, as we sit on the floor or lounge on the bench by the phone. The public phone has a waiting line on some days. On other days, when we are in class, it rings mournfully down the halls. The hall is the place where friends are made.

S.G.A. serves as the go-between with students and faculty. The club is currently involved in getting picnic tables, benches, and mirrors for both campuses and will be involved in the Mardi Gras parade. S.G.A. will try along with other clubs, to sponsor a hot air balloon this fall.

Kiwanis Club International sponsors Circle K, which is a service club to help people in need. Circle K is the sponsor of the blood drive and helps with Special Olympics. It also conducts various fund raisers and is considered one of the most active clubs on campus.

Phi Theta Kappa is an organization for students with at lease a 3.2 GPA. This club will be actively involved in the Natchez Literary Celebration. The Alpha Alpha Zeta chapter attended the annual conference in Hattisburg.

Motivation

"Deadlines, deadlines, deadlines! There is always a mad dash to get the story finished and printed," says Jackie Rouse, N-Sights editor. N-Sights publishes four twelve-page newspapers each year. The staff works on every aspect of writing, editing, proofing and layout.

"Usher's Guild has been a learning experience for me," says Eloise Baylor. Usher's Guild is responsible for helping with Co-Lin sponsored activities and with cultural events in the Natchez area.

DECA members are famous for running for state offices. They are always busy competing on the state, regional and national levels. Michelle Walker made it all the way to New York City this year in competition.

VICA has taken an interest in the community this year. Collecting canned goods for a Thanksgiving dinner for two needy families was just one of their projects.

The LPN students can be found in local hospitals observing and working to perfect their new profession. They can even be found at Whitfield on occasion. After all the hard work they do, who can blame them?

Com-Motion!

Moving Around Campus

From the parking lot, through the halls, to the labs, and classrooms, we constantly move.

We are a commuter campus. Because of the increased enrollment students have a hard time finding available parking space. The parking lot is overflowing, keeping Mr. Inmon busy.

Classrooms are bursting at the seams. Breaktime finds the halls packed with students as they hurry on their way to classes.

Co-Lin / Natchez is outgrowing its present facilities. Hopefully, in the near future, we will have a larger, more modern campus at the Beltline site.

On Halloween, SGA sponsors a Spook Day. Faculty, staff and students show up in various forms of freakishness, showing off their creative talents.

Witches, pumpkins, convicts, bag ladies, Rambos, masked men, Santa's helper, and even a nuclear disaster parade the halls and entertain everyone for the day.

Vo/Tech

"The theme of the Southern Region Governor's Conference being held in Natchez September of 1990 is vocational education. It is somehow very fitting that Co-Lin's expansion of the Vocational/Technical program in Natchez occurred at a time when so much emphasis and attention is being given it nationally," said Dianna Martello, Assistant to the Associate Dean of Vocational Technical Education.

The Natchez Campus opened its new Vocational and Technical Education facility in August of 1988. Eight full-time programs of instruction are offered with a highly trained staff of instructors and state-of-the-art equipment housed in a 2 million dollar complex.

"From assisting in career exploration to assisting in job placement, the emphasis is on opening opportunities for our students to have a better life. We not only teach the entry level skills in a variety of technical and vocational fields, we also teach the attitudes and work habits essential to obtaining and holding gainful employment," Martello said.

Planes, Trains, and Automobiles

Whatever the mode, we are moving on. Natchez with its historic past of river boats and plantations has retained a certain essence but has also changed with the times. Co-Lin is a part of that change. In the past seventeen years Co-Lin has produced scholars who have gone on to careers in medicine, law, aviation, science, education and many more fields.

Co-Lin is moving into the 90's with plans for a new campus at the Beltline site where we will join with the Vo-Tech Center and Alcorn to produce a complete higher education program for the area.

The Annual Staff got together and took an afternoon ride on the carriage in downtown Natchez. We took a ride from Canal Street down to the Gazebo on the bluff. It was really fun except for the fact that these are our last days working together. Even though it's been a lot of work, I've really enjoyed being the editor of the Trillium. There couldn't be two nicer advisors to work with than Mrs. Gerri Brown and Mrs. Judy Emerick. Well, it's time to move on now, so I'll just say so long and hope that our paths cross again someday.

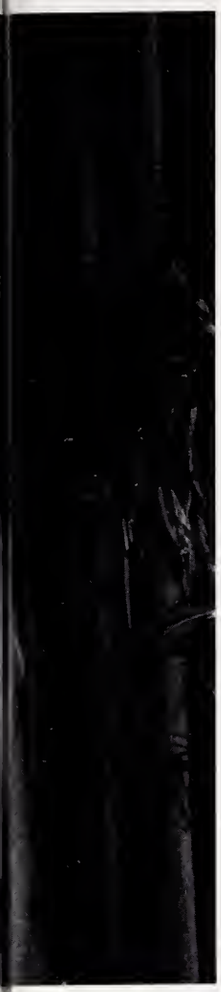
➡What makes Matthew Gooch's day? He was a major participant in the Child Care Trike-A-Thon on his "Little Scoot." The Trike-A-Thon was one of the children's main events for the year, and they raised over $400 to help out St. Jude Children's Hospital.



Highlights

There are many, many people, events, and other things that students, faculty members, and different groups will remember about the 1989-90 year as they leave it and begin thinking about a new time in their lives. New experiences will trigger old memories. Seeing new faces will bring back thoughts of those who were once part of a special moment.

And as Father Time takes those associated with Copiah-Lincoln Community College into an unfamiliar era, it will not be hard to recall the exciting football and basketball games, the algebra tests, the helpful computer teachers, the quiet library, the late night pizzas, the crazy friends, and the dorm curfews. It has been a time not soon to be forgotten, a grain of sand through the hourglass, a special day in our lives.

CO LIN

The Place to Be.

⬇Megan Prather, age 3, doesn't think participating in the Trike-A-Thon is a load of fun. She took several "cry stops" during her laps around the parking lot.

Ease On Down The Road

Thirty local children from the ages of one to five enjoyed participating in this year's St. Jude Trike-A-Thon. The children, who attend the college's Child Care Center, raised over $400 for research at the hospital. An annual event at Co-Lin, the trikers ride around the Center's enclosed parking lot which is equipped with red lights, stop signs, and a passing lane. The Pit Stop also offered refreshments consisting of punch and cookies. Child Care Center Coordinator Lucile Horton said, "We like to think this is a way the children can help less fortunate ones." Four-year-old Justin Davis exclaimed, "We're just having fun!" The money raised this year came up a little short in comparison to last year's $500 effort.

The Trike-A-Thon is also one of the many activities which helps prepare Co-Lin students for becoming the best possible child care givers. The college's child development technology curriculum is designed to prepare students for employment and advancement in a child care or human services occupation. The program emphasizes, among other things, developing and maintaining a safe learning environment for children. This is where the annual Trike-A-Thon becomes not only an important event for the children, but also for the college students who are involved.

⬅Computer Instructor Johnny Williams spends some spare time in the college weight room. He said he lifts weights mainly because he finds it "enjoyable," but he has to keep a regular routine to stay in shape.

⬇Coach Steve Blackmon has a new hobby besides baseball. Son Douglas Blackmon doesn't leave time for "fun and games" anymore.

Completing Other Business

A key word for Co-Lin staff members during the new decade will be the term "busy." Whether the expression is seen in a faculty member's contract or whether it's just a part of every day life, everyone will be keeping themselves occupied. The activity may center around giving a helping hand during college events, attending various campus functions, or simply assisting a spouse with the household chores. The media has pressed into the minds of its viewers, listeners, and readers that keeping busy means a stronger mind and body. The "keep busy" syndrome has definitely reached the doors of Co-Lin.

⬇The state's first lady discusses the college's child care facility with College President Dr. Billy B. Thames.

"A Wonderful Atmosphere"

The college's child development technology program enters the new decade as "a model program that sets a fine example," according to Mississippi's First Lady, Julie Mabus, who toured the facility during the fall term. She said, "I will certainly be telling others about the ways in which Co-Lin is fighting with me in the battle for better child care in the state," adding, "You all should be thankful for the wonderful atmosphere your child care center provides." Mabus concluded by saying she senses a "passion for quality education" at Co-Lin, and that the college is lucky to have not only the child care program, but also the entire college.

Other Guests

Each school year brings more and more guests onto the campus for varied reasons. Some come to perform, others come to hold important meetings or simply to pay a visit. At the beginning of the year, English Actor Rob Inglis appeared in his one man show, "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde," while saxophonist Tom Guralnick played unique variations on his instrument for a curious audience. The year also has seen stopovers by such people as Congressman Mike Parker and Senator Trent Lott. And, of course, there is always visitation from successful college graduates like H. F. McCarty, Dr. Ken Walley, Frank Pitts, Shelby Pitts, and Dr. Eddie Thompson.

Friendship Knows No Boundaries

As students grow a little older, they become more aware about the things around them. One aspect of their lives which begins to take on new meaning is the importance of relationships. Being friends with others becomes a major priority, especially when the other person has similar likes and dislikes, and when mutual respect has been found. Holding on to these friendships also becomes important during the college years because students see companions pass in and out of their lives. It suddenly seems to be true in their minds that friendship is what they make it - it knows no boundaries.

Keep On Rolling

One word describes the vocational-technical program as it moves into the '90s, and that word is PROGRESS. One of the main objectives of the vo-tech program over the years has been to prepare students for the working world. The vo-tech curricula has done just that through offering students a wide variety of training programs.

After completion of the course work, Co-Lin's vo-tech graduates have been very successful in finding employment which their studies at the college have prepared them for. Many go into vocational fields such as auto mechanics, commercial truck driving, machine shop, practical nursing, cosmetology, and professional food service. Others enter technical areas of work such as drafting and design, child development technology, computer technology, and radiography.

Since the inception of the vocational-technical program, new courses of study have been added each year. As the college enters a more advanced technological age which places more emphasis on the worker, the college will continue adding courses to prepare students for the job market.

⬆One reason for the smile on Quinn Webb's face may be the excellent attention she receives as a part of the child development technology program.

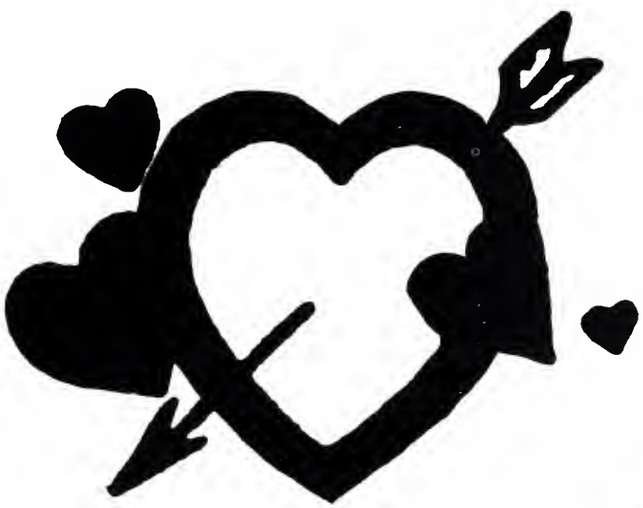
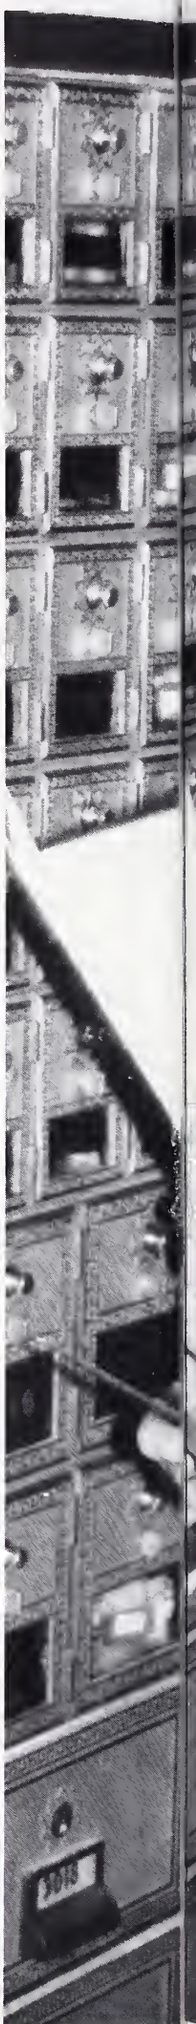
February 14th . . . A Special Day Every Year

Each Valentine's Day, Cupid shoots his arrow straight through the hearts of Co-Lin coeds. Cards bearing the words "BE MINE" pass through the hands of sweethearts and friends. Dances and parties are held around campus. Candy and cakes in the shape of hearts arrive at the dorms, and red roses line the front desk in Stevens Hall. Believed to have gotten its origin from the ancient Roman festival of Lupercalia, Valentine's Day continues to be one of the most celebrated holidays in the world. No where is the tradition of Valentine's observed more than it is right here in the heart of Southwest Mississippi, Wesson, and Copiah-Lincoln.



➡Jackie Chapman of Hazlehurst isn't sure she believes what her Valentine, Eartis Bridges of Monticello, is telling her.

➡Mike McCutchen of Clearwater, Fla., a second semester transfer student, didn't take long figuring out what girls like Dawanna Martin of Albany, La., want on Valentine's Day.



←Stan Sasser of Bogue Chitto reads a Valentine's card which came just in the nick of time (at 3 p.m. on Feb. 14).

↑Basketball players do think of other things besides basketball every now and then. Player Jewett Gary gives Vickie Joyner a Valentine's cake to satisfy her sweet tooth. The two are from Hazlehurst.

←Shannon Montgomery, a basketball player from Walker, La., didn't expect such a nice surprise from her friend.

'90s Fashion . . . Anything Goes

Looking around the Co-Lin campus, it seems evident that the fashion of the 1990's will be a continuation of what has been seen in the '80s. "Threads" will be of every shape, form, and yes, of every fashion. Expect the Madonna look of leather and lace to stick around for at least five more years and don't count out the "Flashdance" cut up sweatshirts with off-the-shoulder tanks underneath. The military camouflage will stick around for a while as will black velvet which has been spotted at several recent weddings. Designer name clothing will also turn some heads. Keep in touch with Ralph Lauren, Patrick Kelly, Liz Claiborne, Anne Klein, Calvin Klein, Donna Karan, and many others. Let's not forget accessories. Get a Swatch watch, a straw hat, and some gold around the neck and wrist to complete the "anything goes" look of the 1990's.

⬆Leather Boots - a must for anyone who's looking their finest in the '90s.

➡Does Dean Ricks know how in style he really is with his new camouflage hunting suit?

←The Real Swatch Or Not? Imitation accessories have been a big seller in the '80s. Look for more of the same in the '90s.

↓Heather West of Brookhaven, a contestant in this year's beauty pageant, models a straight-to-the-floor evening gown trimmed with lace and bugle beads. The antebellum hoop skirt gowns are out for the '90s - the look in any kind of clothing is "body fitting."

⬆Yearbook editors also find time for other campus activities. Michelle Osborne, an associate editor from Meadville, juggles her free hours between the yearbook, Trailblazers, Sojourners, and choir.

As The Last Page Is Sealed . . .

. . . we, the yearbook editors, are sending our final shipment to the printer. We wait in anticipation to see if our long hours of hard work have produced the yearbook we have been aiming to create. We hope, as a staff, to have captured events of the year that you will want to remember forever.

We would like to thank all who have played a part in the production of the 1989-90 Trillium. Special thanks goes out to Miss Harriet Vickers, our advisor, who writes and types all our copy and who has spent more than her share of time helping us to make this yearbook complete. We would like to extend thanks to Mr. Don Jackson for his time and patience in taking many of our pictures for us. Thanks is also extended to the students, faculty, and administration. Without you, Copiah-Lincoln Community College would not be . . . Moving Into The Nineties.

In Memory Of Geraldine Smith

Geraldine Smith is shown receiving a recognition plaque on the tenth anniversary of her association with ARA Campus Dining at Co-Lin.

Geraldine Smith was the head cook and backbone of the Co-Lin cafeteria for at least 25 years. She became an employee of ARA Campus Dining in August of 1974, and she worked for five different food service directors during her employment with ARA.

Co-Lin Food Service Director Ron Kelly said of her, "I know that I am a better person and a better manager for having had the privilege of being associated with this lady. She brought cheer and goodwill into the lives of those she worked with and was concerned with teaching her craft to others. She constantly gave of herself and asked little in return."

Mr. Kelly added, "She fed the body, nurtured the soul, and her vitality and warmth touched everyone. Co-Lin had become to her an extension of her own family, and I am sure she is smiling down at us now, proud to know we are carrying on her tradition."
